Editor's Note

We would like to first and foremost thank all of the students who submitted their research papers for contribution to the St. John Fisher Undergraduate Review. The response was overwhelming and it made the decision process very difficult. We would also like to congratulate once again those whose papers were chosen for this year's edition.

Students submitted papers from a wide variety of academic disciplines, including but not limited to psychology, economics, women and gender studies, and also topics as diverse as Shakespeare, mental health, and political participation here at St. John Fisher College are discussed in this volume. The depth of research and hard work put into each of these papers will surely be apparent to any reader of the Undergraduate Review.

We hope that you will enjoy each of the selections that have been chosen for this edition. And finally, on a personal note, we would like to add that serving as co-editors to this journal has been a wonderful experience. We are honored to have had the opportunity to contribute to this journal of excellence.
