We would like to begin by thanking all of the students who submitted their outstanding pieces of work for contribution to the St. John Fisher Undergraduate Review. We are proud to include our names in this journal of excellence.

Papers were submitted by students from a wide variety of academic areas, including physics, anthropology, and computer science, and topics such as maturity levels, war memorials, and accounting fraud are discussed within this review. The amount of hard work and dedication to excellence put into these papers is obvious to any reader of the Undergraduate Review.

Please enjoy each of the selections that have been chosen for this volume. We hope that all readers enjoy sampling the wide variety of topics that are included in this issue of the St. John Fisher Undergraduate Review.
