The Angle

Volume 1998 | Issue 2 Article 6

1997

The Awakening

Heather Ruffalo

St. John Fisher College

Follow this and additional works at: https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

How has open access to Fisher Digital Publications benefited you?

Recommended Citation

This document is posted at https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol1998/iss2/6 and is brought to you for free and open access by Fisher Digital Publications at St. John Fisher College. For more information, please contact fisherpub@sjfc.edu.
The Awakening

Cover Page Footnote
Appeared in the issue: December 1997.

This poem is available in The Angle: https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol1998/iss2/6
The Awakening

I pour myself over you--
A bath of bread, milk, and honey entwined between your fingers, slipping into the ocean of your eyes, falling against the sweet stem of your soul.

Desire cradles me in lethargic kisses embossed across my spine. Sliding into your skin and filling sugary-coated walls with nectar

Our bodies ebb and flow keeping time with the high-tide at moon's pull Thrusting
me into the depths of your hunger Bursting
open primal fever, unleashed and sacred unto ourselves.

--Heather Ruffalo
The Awakening

I pour myself over you—
A bath of bread, milk, and honey entwined between your fingers, slipping
into the ocean of your eyes, falling
against the sweet stem of your soul.

Desire cradles me in lethargic kisses embossed across my spine.
Sliding into your skin and filling
sugary-coated walls with nectar

Our bodies ebb and flow
keeping time with the high-tide at moon’s pull Thrusting
me into the depths of your hunger
Bursting
open primal fever, unleashed and sacred unto ourselves.

--Heather Ruffalo