Call of The Moon

Jennifer A. Lydum

Follow this and additional works at: https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

How has open access to Fisher Digital Publications benefited you?

Recommended Citation

This document is posted at https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol1999/iss3/23 and is brought to you for free and open access by Fisher Digital Publications at St. John Fisher College. For more information, please contact fisherpub@sjfc.edu.
Call of The Moon

Appeared in the issue: March 1999.
Call of The Moon

Jodie says forget-me-nots forget you quickly, all too soon And roses red carry blots which only fade and never bloom

Jodie watched her ship sink low and saw the gold pieces scatter Guess that's why her heart won't show the way in which it can shatter

Jodie reaches far and high with pools of slat streaking her face Gurgling throat she heaves a sigh wipes her eyes with her grandma's lace

Jodie says she's blind with light and in her head she hears a tune It comes to her dark at night Jodie hears the Call of the moon

---Jennifer Lydum