

December 2007

Let Me Love You

Douglas Della Pietra
St. John Fisher College

Follow this and additional works at: <https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/verbum>

Part of the Religion Commons

How has open access to Fisher Digital Publications benefited you?

Recommended Citation

Della Pietra, Douglas (2007) "Let Me Love You," Verbum: Vol. 5 : Iss. 1 , Article 9.
Available at: <https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/verbum/vol5/iss1/9>

This document is posted at <https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/verbum/vol5/iss1/9> and is brought to you for free and open access by Fisher Digital Publications at St. John Fisher College. For more information, please contact fisherpub@sjfc.edu.

Let Me Love You

POETRY BEND

 Prize provided by

Mona Lisa Café
807 Ridge Road
Webster, New York 14580
Tel: (585) 671-2080
www.monalisacafe.net

++ Second prize provided by David Mammano of NextStep Magazine

Student Poems Submissions Review Committee

Members of the Religious Studies Club

Faculty Flowers

Let Me Love You

Be silent, let me love you, and you will become a new creation.
Be silent, let me love you, and you will become a new creation.

My heart is like the dry-cracked ground in the desert,
Parched and lifeless, longing for water.
The words of my soul can't push their way through the hardness.
The spirit within wonders, "Will it ever grow?"

From within the shelter of transformation,
Suspended between earth and heaven.
God works within to form a new creation.
The butterfly waits for the time when God sets it free.

I send forth the gift of My Holy Spirit,
Surrounding and filling all the world.
You, my people, shall be re-created,
and I shall renew the face of the earth.

Be, just be. Be, just be.
Let me love thee. Let me love thee.
Yes, you will see. I'll set you free.

Be silent, let me love you, and you will become a new creation.
Be silent, let me love you, and you will become a new creation.

Douglas Della Pietra