Letter from the Editor

On behalf of myself and the Editorial Board, I am pleased to present the 2021 edition of The Review: A Journal of Undergraduate Research and Scholarship. This 22nd volume of The Review presents a variety of research conducted by undergraduates here at St. John Fisher College. We congratulate these students on having their work recognized and published for this edition.

Getting work published is no easy task. Three members of the Editorial Board, made up of both faculty and students, considered each submission in a blind review process. It was often difficult to make final decisions. The pieces published in this edition of The Review are the best of the many excellent submissions that we received. Nevertheless, we are grateful and appreciative of all those students who dedicated their time to submit papers.

I would like to thank the members of the Editorial Board for their effort and commitment to ensuring that the 2021 edition of The Review is one of the best yet. Additionally, thank you to our faculty advisor Dr. Bissonette for guiding us towards this finalized publication. We also want to thank all our faculty reviewers whose knowledge in their respective fields allowed us to highlight relevant and accurate research.

Congratulations to all of our authors, especially Kathryn Kelley, for winning this year's Provost's Award for Best paper.

We hope that you thoroughly enjoy this 22nd volume of The Review.

Yours truly,

Jake Franchi '23
