

The Angle

---

Volume 1980 | Issue 1

Article 17

---

1980

His Eyes Silently Shut

Richard G. Barrington
St. John Fisher College

Follow this and additional works at: <https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

How has open access to Fisher Digital Publications benefited you?

---

Recommended Citation

Barrington, Richard G. (1980) "His Eyes Silently Shut," The Angle: Vol. 1980 : Iss. 1 , Article 17.
Available at: <https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol1980/iss1/17>

This document is posted at <https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol1980/iss1/17> and is brought to you for free and open access by Fisher Digital Publications at St. John Fisher College. For more information, please contact fisherpub@sjfc.edu.

---

His Eyes Silently Shut

Cover Page Footnote

Appeared in the issue: 1980.

Ink by Lorraine Ballesty

His eyes silently shut

*“What to write,
What to write?”
The poet asked God
On one cool autumn night.
“Shall I write of the world —
What could I say that hasn’t been said?”
And giving up,
He lay down on his bed.
His eyes silently shut.*

*He dreamt he saw a great field of battle,
On the one side virtue, on the other side vice.
Brave and strong dressed in white was the captain of good;
And the captain of evil in black, face concealed by his hood.
The evil attacked with their hate,
Good rising above.
But just when it seemed
Virtue had the day won,
They started to fight with themselves,
And all was as hell.*

*“Dreadful sight,
Dreadful sight!”
The poet cried out
As he woke with a fright.
“Is this true of the world —
And oh if this be true of the world,
What is the point of living my life?”
And giving up,
He took hold of his knife.
His eyes silently shut.*

RICHARD G. BARRINGTON