Ode To Serta

Cover Page Footnote
Intermezzo
-Paul T. Keppler

How do I entreat this Oriental saga?
A bravura engaging these periodic eyes Its ignoble payoff unlike
  The Egyptian slave,
  The Bohemian gypsy, or
  The Roman diva.
One's mind agape in tragic splendor Seeking inviolate vision anew
That I may wrest purpose from sin.

Wherein lies the greater tragedy:
Earthly term flecked with goaded naivete
Or to know Satan at eighteen?
Prepped to expect a reciprocal Love that wandered east
In search of unquestioning ears While the voiceless issue shunned.

The advantaged officer who would Calculate a foreign quest Disown his benign betrothed Skew the mind and Annex the soul but Dampen not her spirit
O'er three years yearning.

And she, clement her ductile heart Admonished by Blunt to discern:
The valiant from the pompous
The righteous from the abusive Constitution from empty promise and to Enjoin the wind and embrace
The family once forsaken.

Her enduring sorrow prodded
By the destiny of text None but a silken kimono
To shield the intruded viscera.
A martyr as the curtain falls
That we may know the treachery
Of the human heart.

Ode To Serta
-Michael Cornelius

Staring up into an inky abyss -
wading, lying in an open
shallow grave -
wanting to go
not out
but deeper,
down in the dirt -
to feel the embrace of my mother
as I remember
nothing else -
but not being allowed to go,
the weight of a thousand
crystal demons keeps
me here -
they haunt me;
torment me;
tease me;
indulge me
but never let me
do what I want
rest -
moaning,
cursing,
thrashing,
kinetic thinking;
praying for
a savior
wanting all to cease -
knowing it will not
when I ask for it;
it will
only
when I stop asking
for it;
come only when I no longer speak -
pity me,
pity us,
we are the damned,
we are the chosen,
we are the
unfortunate
souls
who
never rest,
ever cease,
ever sleep -
we are the
wakeful,
always vigilant,
allowing the
demons of our lives
to creep not into our dreams
but into
our thoughts
themselves -
doomed
for all night
to be tormented;
unceasing,
until Morpheus
our brother
at last takes us in his arms
and breathes
the life
out of us -
the more we want the less we get what we need knowing it will not when I ask for it; it will only when I stop asking for it; come only when I no longer speak - pity me, pity us, we are the damned, we are the chosen, we are the unfortunate souls who never rest, never cease, never sleep -

we are the wakeful, always vigilant, allowing the demons of our lives to creep not into our dreams but into our thoughts themselves - doomed for all night to be tormented; unceasing, until Morpheus our brother at last takes us in his arms and breathes the life out of us -

the more we want the less we get what we need
