1970

After Yesterday

Dennis O'Brien

St. John Fisher College

Follow this and additional works at: https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle

How has open access to Fisher Digital Publications benefited you?

Recommended Citation

Available at: https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol1970/iss2/22

This document is posted at https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol1970/iss2/22 and is brought to you for free and open access by Fisher Digital Publications at St. John Fisher College. For more information, please contact fisherpub@sjfc.edu.
After Yesterday

Cover Page Footnote
Appeared in the issue: Spring 1970.

This poem is available in The Angle: https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol1970/iss2/22
AFTER YESTERDAY

there was a time when I took too many pictures.
Now I have collections of too many square
flat,
glossy,
full-color,
people
I don't even remember and won’t see again.

I won’t take your picture.
Sixty-second memories fade away in scrapbooks full of giggling smiles and poses of fake surprise.

Instead I’ll remember you the way you were when I bought you the blue balloon that floated away.

I guess those that can't afford balloons have to buy cameras.

_Dennis O'Brien_

TO POLLY

Four walls push my chest
Toward my back.
My eyes squeeze vision
From tiny panes of glass.
"Can't breathe!" I scream.

But no one comes,
No one can hear,
Unless the little girl
Comes back to use her dolls again.

_Len Fonte_