The Eternal Prince Of Almost

Richard Barrington

St. John Fisher College
The Eternal Prince Of Almost

Cover Page Footnote
Appeared in the issue: 1981.

This poem is available in The Angle: https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol1981/iss1/12
"the misty air envelopes all"

the misty air envelopes all creatures lay peaceful and content pale hues of spring calm the senses filled with joy
DIANE DELLUOMO

The Eternal Prince of Almost

Trumpets blare their tribute,
My footsteps fall
On the finest red carpet;
Parading before the admiring smiles
Of nature's sweetest maidens.
Solemnly, I take my place Before the high-priest,
As he raises the crown Towards my head.

Then, with a sudden, final Motion,
He places the crown on the head
Of another,
And, as I see my smile on the other's face,
The fire flares within.
My desire is doubled,
And thus my chances are halved.

RICHARD BARRINGTON