Dreams Weaving

Elena M. Cambio

St. John Fisher College

How has open access to Fisher Digital Publications benefited you?

Follow this and additional works at: http://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Available at: http://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol1990/iss1/21

This document is posted at http://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol1990/iss1/21 and is brought to you for free and open access by Fisher Digital Publications at St. John Fisher College. For more information, please contact fisherpub@sjfc.edu.
Dreams Weaving

Cover Page Footnote
Appeared in the issue: 1990.

This poem is available in The Angle: http://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol1990/iss1/21
"She's a high school dropout; as soon as she turned sixteen she left school and got a job here to help support her and her mother."

She disappears into the kitchen and Jason resorts back to his place mat. I notice the group of rowdy boys she must serve and can't help but feel sorry for her. As she reappears, Jason concludes: "She also has a serious boyfriend. All they talk about is marriage which causes turmoil between her and her mother."

Finally, I lift up my place mat and compare it to Jason's. "Wow, very interesting," I add. We finish our ice cream and pay the waitress, who is extremely impressed by our artistic talents. As we leave, I turn to take one last glimpse at all the victims of Jason's stories, and then back at the two of us. Amazingly I think to myself, "I can only imagine what they would say about us."

Dreams Weaving

The castles we build,
And dreams weaving
Of fabric unknown
Shelter our precious hearts.

And what of these dreams
That shape our lives?
Maybe they keep us content
As the world falls down.

Elena M. Cambio

Magical Illusions

Amy J. Goering
"She's a high school dropout; as soon as she turned sixteen she left school and got a job here to help support her and her mother."

She disappears into the kitchen and Jason resorts back to his place mat. I notice the group of rowdy boys she must serve and can't help but feel sorry for her. As she reappears, Jason concludes: "She also has a serious boyfriend. All they talk about is marriage which causes turmoil between her and her mother."

Finally, I lift up my place mat and compare it to Jason's. "Hmm, very interesting," I add. We finish our ice cream and pay the waitress, who is extremely impressed by our artistic talents. As we leave, I turn to take one last glimpse at all the victims of Jason's stories, and then back at the two of us. Amazingly I think to myself, "I can only imagine what they would say about us."

---

Dreams Weaving

The castles we build,
And dreams weaving
Of fabric unknown
Shelter our precious hearts.

And what of these dreams
That shape our lives?
Maybe they keep us content
As the world falls down.

Elena M. Cambio

---

Magical Illusions

Amy J. Goering