The editors would like to extend a sincere thanks to Dr. Lovenheim and her husband John for their wholehearted support of the Angle effort. We would also like to again thank Dr. Lovenheim along with Mrs. Ann Couch for allowing us unrestricted use of the Writing Center as our office.

Copyright 1991 All rights reserved
The Angle is a student-run publication of St. John Fisher College, Rochester, NY 14618
The editors would like to extend a sincere thanks to Dr. Lovenheim and her husband John for their wholehearted support of the Angle effort. We would also like to again thank Dr. Lovenheim along with Mrs. Ann Couch for allowing us unrestricted use of the Writing Center as our office.

Copyright 1991. All rights reserved
The Angle is a student-run publication of St. John Fisher College, Rochester, NY 14618

Table of Contents

Dance Movements of the Mind  Sharilynn Battaglia ........................................ 3
Ministry Michael S. Merry .......................................................... 5
Classrooms Thomas Frisk ........................................................................... 10
Follow Me Paul Nojaim ............................................................................. 11
New Dishes Patti Weaver ........................................................................... 12
Choking on Wishes Jan Mater .................................................................... 14
In between cigarettes Roman Divezur ...................................................... 14
The Window Upstairs Christina M. Pawelczak .......................................... 15
Cube Three Thomas Frisk ........................................................................... 16
Playground susan montague ..................................................................... 18
Air Separation Sharilynn Paolotto ............................................................. 19
Near Susanne Bartz .................................................................................. 20
Love Poem Jan Mater ................................................................................ 20
Weeping Willow Kathleen M. Blasi ............................................................. 22
Laughter Past Jennifer Kircher ..................................................................... 27
From Behind Todd V.S. Cucchiara ............................................................ 28
Innocent Deceptions Laurie Ward ............................................................. 30
The Dance Heather Jones ........................................................................... 32
Feats Maria A. Sciarpa ................................................................................ 33
Loneliness Susanne Bartz .......................................................................... 34
A Night in the Life of a Man in Love Eric Evans ........................................ 36
Dear Diary Jenna Mills ................................................................................ 38
The Abandoned Orchestra Kerry Ivers .................................................... 39
Reflections Sharilynn Battaglia ................................................................. 40
Seashore Mary Reynolds ........................................................................... 40
The Hero  Sharilynn Battaglia ................................................ .. ..... .. ............................................. 42
Spring Gail Wyse ........................................................................ 43
Wild Flowers Nora Aman .......................................................... 44
Genesis or Two American Dreams John Farrell ................................. 46
big brother is here Jason Franco ............................................................................. 48
Missing a LanceCorporal Cynthia L. Boyle ........................................... 48
The Quintessential College Student Kristen Basi ................................. 49
Come Anytime susan montague .......................................................... 51
Dream Realized Keith Edward Hahn .................................................... 52
Your Own Space Adam C. Slick .............................................................. 53
Grandma Bobbie Dillon ........................................................................ 56
Teasing Twenty Laurie L. Barczak ........................................................... 57
Lost Connection Laura Jones ................................................................. 60

Artwork and Photography

Death and Resurrection Ciprian Almonte .................................................. 4
Still Life in Ice Ciprian Almonte ................................................................. 13
Kristen's Window Eric LoCastro ................................................................. 15
Years After the Love Was Forgotten Jennifer Kircher ................................... 21
Cemetery Gates Mary-Margaret Tamiso ..................................................... 29
The Edge of It All Jennifer Kircher ............................................................ 35
"But I want that flower..." Jennifer Kircher ................................................ 41
Tulip in Spring Jenna Mills ........................................................................... 45
Up the Junction Eric LoCastro ................................................................. 55
"Pops" Craig Lamb .................................................................................... 59
Inside Back Cover Design Jennifer Kircher

Dance Movements of the Mind
by
Sharilynn Battaglia

I was created out of emotion with words as my medium. I am the key that unlocks the soul of the dreamer, or opens the door of harsh reality. I can make you laugh. I can make you cry. I will give you something to believe in when you've nothing left inside. I am a dove flying in the realms of your imagination, close enough to feel, yet just outside your grasp. I am all things to all people, for no two people will read me in quite the same way. I will attempt to express life's inexpressible moments, and you will read me, love me, hate me, never quite understand me, for I am the vision of the inner eye.