The Fall

Christopher Minsterman
_S. John Fisher College_

Follow this and additional works at: https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

_How has open access to Fisher Digital Publications benefited you?

Recommended Citation

Available at: https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol1999/iss4/7

This document is posted at https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol1999/iss4/7 and is brought to you for free and open access by Fisher Digital Publications at St. John Fisher College. For more information, please contact fisherpub@sjfc.edu.
The Fall

Appeared in the issue: Spring 1999.

This poem is available in The Angle: https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol1999/iss4/7
The Fall

I find my way to the edge of the shore
And swim through the thickness of air
I have been here before...

Memories sift through my eyes
My body becomes numb
Subjected to this rain

...and then I fall to my knees only to be consoled by silence as silent light of the moon serenades the night

the waves dress the sand with their timelessness to wash away the stained land upon which I bore my pain

I cry out her name
And the ocean returns a solitary voice
Enshrined by a choir
Enchantment sates my pain
As she sings to me
Her angelic voice inspires

The harmony of our cries
Singing to each other
This love never dies
Our existence has been forever...

--Christopher Minsterman