Canada On A Lake, July 1999

Kate Gruenfelder

St. John Fisher College

Follow this and additional works at: https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle

How has open access to Fisher Digital Publications benefited you?

Recommended Citation

This document is posted at https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol2002/iss4/22 and is brought to you for free and open access by Fisher Digital Publications at St. John Fisher College. For more information, please contact fisherpub@sjfc.edu.
Canada On A Lake, July 1999

Cover Page Footnote

This poem is available in The Angle: https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol2002/iss4/22
KATE GRUENFELDER

CANADA ON A LAKE, JULY 1999

The humid air forces a sundress on my sweaty body night air brushes over the hairs on my arms and kisses a smile on my lips
The water is a textured floor, silver, shimmering and it meets the fiery orange sky – lapping against the sunset

The small tide plays with my toes, begging me to come in I resist only because it’s dark and the horseflies and blackflies are forming into packs along the surface
Tiny sapphires tinkling above the water.

The wet sand cakes my feet – trying to swallow my toes while the crickets use the water’s beat to play a song for me that’s all I can hear: crickets playing in perfect tune to the water’s tide it soon falls in sync with the beat of my own thoughts
Not always steady but constant.

I reach out and feel the cool, smooth leaves they touch my hands and tell me to stay a while longer
I accept the invitation and smile.