The Angle

Volume 2004 | Issue 4

2004

Instant Ink

Jenny Stockdale
St. John Fisher College

Follow this and additional works at: https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

How has open access to Fisher Digital Publications benefited you?

Recommended Citation

Available at: https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol2004/iss4/4

This document is posted at https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol2004/iss4/4 and is brought to you for free and open access by Fisher Digital Publications at St. John Fisher College. For more information, please contact fisherpub@sjfc.edu.
Instant Ink

Cover Page Footnote

This poem is available in The Angle: https://fisherpub.sjfc.edu/angle/vol2004/iss4/4
You're the instant I catch myself collapsing like cheap furniture. At least, you were that instant before I would come to find that, like instant coffee, you're a makeshift excuse for addiction.

That's all that kept me awake, for years

You're the ink I never bothered to scrub off my crooked fingers. At least, you were that ink before I would come to find that, like ink wells, you're a shallow, glass jar girdling permanence.

It used to keep me awake

But just yesterday, when I orchestrated my own ending, you painted me a mess you sang me a hurricane you kicked me in the memory, and I turned that furniture into firewood.

As for the ink, I used soap this time.